YESTERDAY: the bold, broad concourse that was Swanston Street in 1858.

STREETS PAVED WITH GREEN?

THERE will be palm trees outside Young and Jackson's, a 22-metre dinosaur outside the museum, polka dots on the town hall and grass on the tram tracks.

Tomorrow and Sunday, dusty, unglamorous, everyday Swanston Street will be transformed into a party place, a carnival, a food fair and a dance stage for the entire city. The occasion is Victoria's 150th Anniversary and the State Government is laying out $550,000 for the celebration, which has the grand and simple aim of giving Melbourne a good time.

Comedy, dancing, singing and tumbling are scheduled day and night. Entertainers as diverse as Circus Oz, the Australian Philharmonic Orchestra, Captain Matchbox, Los Trios Ringbarkus and Jean Francois, troubadour will perform on three stages.

As well, Melbourne's past will be satirised, set to music and proclaimed from soapboxes in historical entertainment provided by the Almost Managing Company (which co-presented the Gillies Report). Its writers include novelist Peter Mathers,

ENTERTAINMENT

Continuous entertainment on three stages, plus street theatre and historical sketches. See Program for details.

PUBLIC TRANSPORT

Trams are running in Flinders Street and Latrobe Street, and also in Collins and Bourke streets terminating close to Swanston Street. In Bourke Street, a bus shuttle service is running between Swanston and Spencer streets. City Loop trains are running all weekend. Special travel concessions apply on all public transport.

STREET THEATRE

Historical Sketches

Street theatre with an historical flavour is presented by the Almost Managing Company, who have recently made their mark in the ABC's highly successful "The Gillies Report". Sketches, directed by Ken Harper, will be presented four times a day, at four venues. There's also a "Poet's Corner" at the Town Hall Square, where leading Melbourne poets will present some of their most interesting writings.

1. Location: The "Ziggurat" near St Paul's Cathedral
"MELBOURNE PANORAMA" — famous historical characters will heckle each other, and the passing crowd, in sketches written by historian David Dunstan.

Performance times:
Saturday 9th: 10.00 am, 11.30 am, 1.30 pm, 6.00 pm
Sunday 10th: 10.00 am, 11.30 am, 1.30 pm, 4.00 pm

2. Location: Opposite the Town Hall
"HISTORY OF THE BACKYARD" — written by feminist writer and critic Suzanne Spinner, this sketch features such familiar Melbourne items as a Hills Hoist, BBQ and over-the-fence chats.

Performance times:
Saturday 9th: 10.45 am, 12.30 pm, 2.30 pm, 7.30 pm
Sunday 10th: 10.45 am, 12.30 pm, 2.30 pm, 5.00 pm

3. Location: Myer's window, Bourke Street
"I'LL BUY THAT" — a 'shop window' display of animated advertisements from the 1880s and 1890s, scripted by Peter Mathers. Includes a satirical look at Richmond's famous Aboriginal above the Pelaco Shirt Factory ("Mine tinket day fit"), plus other advertisements from up and down Swanston Street.

Performance times:
Saturday 9th: 11.00 am, 12.45 pm, 2.45 pm, 5.00 pm
Sunday 10th: 11.00 am, 12.45 pm, 2.45 pm, 5.00 pm

4. Location: The Tram, north of Bourke Street

"LOW LIFE AND HIGH LIFE" — stories written by John Romeril, based on Louis Esson's "Teasing Tales" of Melbourne's low life in the 1890s. They include plenty of music and singing.

Performance times:
Saturday 9th: 10.00 am, 12.00 noon, 1.00 pm, 7.00 pm
Sunday 10th: 10.00 am, 12.00 noon, 1.00 pm, 4.00 pm

POET'S CORNER

Location: Vaudeville Stage

Leading Melbourne writer-performers, including Eric Beach, Cliff Smythe, Rosemary Nissen, Kevin Brophy, Myron Lysenk.

Times:

Saturday: 11.30 am, 2.15 pm
Sunday: 2.15 pm, 3.15 pm

playwright John Romeril, historian David Dunstan and writer Suzanne Spunner.

The 200,000 or so people expected to visit the central business district over the weekend will also be able to shop. Major department stores and arcade shops will be open from 9 am to 5 pm tomorrow and from 11 am to 5 pm on Sunday.

In Little Bourke Street an Asian Food Fair will offer Indonesian and Chinese delicacies in a modest imitation of Singapore's Orchard Road car park. Further along, Mexican, Italian and Greek food stalls will be set up along with picnic pavilions and table settings installed beneath instant trees.

In the evening, a gigantic light show is set to project hundreds of moving polka dots on the Town Hall. From five points along Swanston Street, including the Manchester Unity Building, the Edison Light Company will assemble a 4000 watt screen projector, spot lights, two carbon arc effects projectors and 12 other slide projectors.

Another touch of madness is the museum dinosaur. It is a foam replica of a Mamenchisaurus and has about 200 bones. Five people were needed to erect the beast which will remain in Swanston Street two weeks after the party is over.

But even without the prehistoric relics and the 20th century bullabaloos, Swanston Street will be worth visiting this weekend, just to look at the grass and flowers.

The greening of Swanston Street will involve 240 trees, countless marigolds and petunias and 13,250 square metres of grass. Staff from the Ministry of Planning and Environment, which is responsible for the street's party design, have called it Operation Greenstreet.

About 260 workers will labor between 9 pm tonight and dawn tomorrow to transform a place for motorised traffic into a place for feet. The grass alone will take 40 experienced grass layers several hours to install.

The grass, grown by the Anco Seed and Turf Co on an alluvial plain near the Barwon River, has been transferred onto hessian carpet backing to make it easier to handle. Yesterday afternoon workmen began loading the turf into 20 trucks which will carry it to the city.

The 1300 rolls of grass will be laid by hand, over the tramtracks and asphalt of Swanston Street. Even a seating mound and a tramways barrier will be covered by this living carpet.

The cost of the grass is $49,500. Whatever survives will be used on a landscaping project in western suburbs' Dynon Road.

The instant greening will also include 45 bangalow palm trees, 30 alders, 60 claret ash, 36 prunus, 14 honey locust and chestnut and cherry trees, secured in 60 triangular planter boxes.

The trees are being supplied by the Ronneby tree farm in Berwick. Some of them, including half of the prunus, were prepared for removal to the city late last night. David Lawton of the tree farm explains that they are less likely to suffer ill-effects if they are not dug up in the heat of the day.

The only trees not to be grown on his farm are the seven-metre bangalow palms. These were rescued from a farm in Valery, northern NSW, where they were about to be bulldozed.

The 26-hour, 1300 kilometre trip to Melbourne was tough on the trees; about 20 did not survive so an extra truckload was organised.

The bangalows which did manage to live on have been cosseted in a gully in Berwick, their hessian-covered roots turned to an almost constantly playing sprinkler.

Between 4 pm and 9 pm today they will be loaded into trucks. Their foliage will be sprayed with wax to prevent evaporation, and super-absorbent material will be packed around the roots in hessian bags, forming a water jelly from which the trees will drink during their 48 hours in the city.

David Lawton says it will not be possible to water the trees properly while they are in Swanston Street. Their planter boxes will have false tops, covered with flowers. After the party the trees will be returned to Ronneby and tended "to get them over the rude shock of being used this way in February".

The trees eventually will be used in the new West Gate Park and municipal council projects. The cost of providing the party with trees is about $50,000.

WHERE AND WHEN

Swanston Street will be closed to through-traffic between Flinders Street and Lonsdale Street. Flinders Lane will be closed between Russell and Degraffes streets; Collins Street will be closed between Russell and Elizabeth; Little Collins between Royal Lane and Elizabeth; Bourke between Russell and Elizabeth; Little Bourke between Elizabeth and Heffernan Lane; and Lonsdale between Russell and Elizabeth. NB: although the above sections will be closed to through-traffic, all car parks within the area will remain open and accessible. Bourke Street, near Royal Lane, will be a drop-off area for the handicapped.

Travel free or half fare, when you catch The Met to the Swanston Street Party.

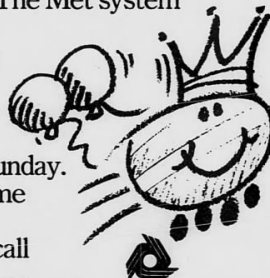

This Swanston Street Summer Party of ours will be the biggest family event we've seen in our 150 years. And The Met is going to make sure you've got some money left for the essentials, like balloons and fairy floss.

All concession card holders, and kids under 15 can travel free. For everyone else it's only half fare.

This applies throughout The Met system for the entire weekend.

The last train on all lines leaves Flinders Street at 12.30 a.m. Sunday, and the Loop will operate from 9.30 a.m. to 9.30 p.m. on Sunday. So park your troubles at home and have a great time.

For further information call the Transport Information Centre on 602-9011.

METROPOLITAN TRANSIT
